

LEFT BRIDE MOTHER MADE HIM MARRY

Mrs. Voight Wins Annulment Because Husband Went Home to Parent.

Justice Strong in Supreme Court yesterday annulled the marriage of Mrs. Elizabeth Ida Voight of No. 7 Van Fleet Street, Corona, to Robert Voight. Mrs. Voight testified she told her before the marriage he owned a house at No. 20 South Junction Avenue, and that he would fit it up for her. She was married Jan. 24, 1920, at the home of her father, Otto Reinke, with all the members of her family and all the members of Voight's family except his father, present.

Mrs. Voight said her husband told her after the ceremony he was going home with his mother. Mrs. Voight testified she made repeated efforts to have her husband take up housekeeping with her, but he told her he had married her only because his mother made him do it.

Voight was asked by Justice Strong if he had told his wife he had married her because his mother made him do it, and he said he had.

"Why don't you live with your wife?" asked Justice Strong.

"Because I married her hastily and I have since lost all love for her," replied Voight.
